NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHERS/EDITORS

Deb & Ron Rowe

GREETINGS AMBERGLEN NEIGHBORS!

A lot has happened since the last newsletter. Our little grand-daughters will be 1-year old August 11th! Wow! Time sure has gone by quickly. We have sent their pictures into FOX 12 since the channel features first birthdays and if you watch this channel, you may see them before 9am on their birthday. The first picture is the one our daughter wanted us to send to FOX 12. The other two are just us grand-parents bragging.

Hannah/Scarlett

Hannah

Scarlett

Scarlett has taken a couple of steps and Hannah crawls like a spider on her feet...really fast! They both babble and laugh constantly. They seem to be very happy and well-adjusted little ladies. Well, enough about them. On to business...

This newsletter addresses some upcoming events being sponsored by the AGW such as scavenger hunts, turkey drives, yard presentations, and a possible Christmas giving tree. We would love to hear from you for additional items and planning ideas. So, please don't be shy! Come join us at the next AGW meeting held on the last Monday of the month.

Regards,

Ron and Deb Rowe

AGW'S HELPING HAND

Each month during the AGW committee meetings, the members discuss different ways to improve our community and how to assist others in our surrounding areas. We would love to have you join us for Pizza and to share your ideas. We know Amberglen has many creative minds and it would be great to hear your suggestions.

Below are a few improvements that have been made and/or discussed.

AMBERGLEN FREE LIBRARY

Please stop by our Amberglen Free Library and take a peek at the wonderful collection of items. It is located right by the mailboxes. Karen Williams and Karl Durovchic planned and built the library and several neighbors chipped in to paint it. Thank you to all for your contributions and delightful treasures that now fill its shelves.

ADOPT-A-ROAD

The Amberglen community has completed its first year of the Adopt-A-Road project.

THE AMBERGLEN SIGN

Have you ever tried to direct someone to our neighborhood and they got lost anyway? Have you called for an Uber or Taxi and they did not show or were late because they could not find your house? If they have not updated their GPS, it is possible they may find themselves near the mall instead of in our beautiful neighborhood. We did some snooping and found that most neighborhoods have their community sign located at the entrance before entering the neighborhood. That is not the case for Amberglen. You must enter our neighborhood and make a slight turn before our Amberglen sign can be seen. We are trying to discover why the sign was placed where it currently is and, if it is possible to move it to the entrance of our community. Please let us know if you are in support of moving the sign by sending an email to amberglenconnections@gmail.com. We will keep you informed as to the status of this endeavor.

YARD OF THE SEASON

For details, please see page 6 of this newsletter.

HOLIDAY PARTYS

During the last AGW meeting, the committee discussed the possibility of hosting a couple of community holiday gatherings. Please feel free to share your thoughts with us so we can ensure all have a good time. Please send your ideas to amberglenconnections@gmail.com.

HALLOWEEN: SCAVENGER HUNT

Details TBD

Our daughter has a photography business. She is trying to build clientele. She has offered to set up a portable studio on site to take pictures of any one who desires to capture themselves and/or family in their creative costumes. No appointments necessary. Just walk up and let her capture the moment.

CHRISTMAS: WHITE ELEPHANT AND POSSIBLE CHRISTMAS GIFT GIVING TREE

Details TBD

THANKSGIVING DINNER OR TURKEYS FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

The AGW would like to reach out to those in need, not only in our community, but where assistance is most needed. The committee is currently discussing what type of assistance would be more helpful. Your contributions and ideas would be greatly appreciated. Please send your ideas to amberglenconnections@gmail.com. You may also join us at our next monthly meeting to be held on August 28th.

PALOUSE FALLS

Palouse Falls, formerly known as Aput which means "Falling Water," was named by the Palouse Native Americans. This iconic waterfall is located in the Palouse Falls State Park and is definitely worth experiencing!

Prior to the great Ice Age floods from glacial Lake Missoula, the Palouse River followed the route of the Washtucna Coulee River westward from Washtucna to Connell and then south along the Esquatzel Coulee to the Pasco area. That is where it joined the Columbia River. During the Ice Age floods, the huge volumes of water entering the Palouse drainage were so large that east of Washtucna waters spilled southward over a divide into the Snake River. At the end of the last ice age, repeated glacial floods, known as the Missoula Floods, swept across eastern Washington carving out the unique scablands landscape. Scablands are flat, elevated land deeply scarred by channels of glacial or fluvio-glacial origin with poor soil and little vegetation. However, the Palouse Indian tribe tells a different story about how Palouse Falls came to be.

According to the Indian legend of the Pacific Northwest, Palouse River once flowed smoothly into the Snake. But four giant brothers, in pursuit of a mythic creature called Big Beaver, speared the great creature five times. Each time Big Beaver was wounded, he gouged the canyon walls, causing the river to bend and change. The fifth time he was speared, he fought the brothers valiantly and tore out a huge canyon. The river tumbled over a cliff at this point to become Palouse Falls. The jagged canyon walls show the deep marks of Big Beaver's claws. That must have been one great battle!

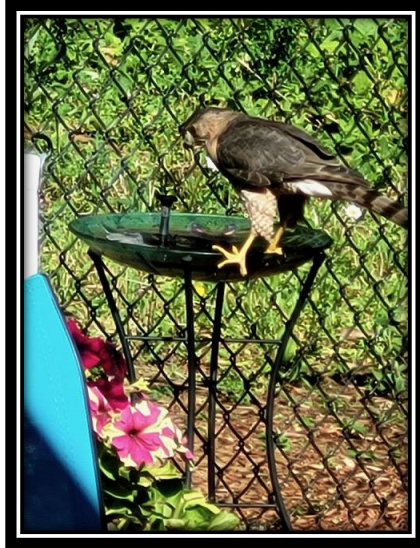

No matter how this fall was formed, Palouse Falls is one of most magnificent and lasting remnants of the glacial flood path, which is thousands of years old. It is the only major waterfall left. On February 12, 2014 the Palouse Falls became Washington's official state waterfall. Standing at a height of 198 feet and surrounded by astonishing basalt cliffs, the powerful waterfall lies on the Palouse River flowing together with the Snake River.

Isn't it great that our state has such magnificent topography!

AMBERGLEN'S ECOSPHERE

Amberglen's wildlife is still around us so please keep your pets and children in mind as you walk through our neighborhood.

This magnificent hawk was spotted in Carol McDonald's yard and she was able to capture its beauty.

This Coyote was spotted by the Pond fence by Chuck Polacek as he was walking his dog, Cinnamon one morning.
